

M. BLERIOT SURE AEROPLANES WILL CROSS THE OCEAN

But He Denies He Ever Said
It Would Be Within Two Years' Time.

IT MAY BE 200 YEARS.

Certainly, Though, They Will Have to Be Large Ships and Swift Ones.

M. Louis Blériot, the eminent aviator, inventor and manufacturer of single seated ships of the air, spoke no English, saying only this:

"You speak no French? Ah! Then come the shoulder raising code for sorrow, happiness and anxiety three times repeated. 'Too bad! I speak no English.' Then, with a radiant smile, followed a volley of French which it was not for the unfortunate Evening World reporter to follow literally, but at which he very easily guessed. The translation was easy. It was: 'Friend, it reads my heart, but we are as deaf as it.'"

Just then President John H. Finley of the College of the City of New York came along, who, among others, is helping the distinguished company of Frenchmen who are now in this country hearing the Rodin bust, "France," to enjoy themselves. When the assurance is over the identification of our star reporter will have been placed on the top of the memorial lightness at Crown Point, Lake Champlain, in honor of Champlain. He fixed things up so that M. Blériot could, to his great relief—there was never kinder good will than his to try to do something obliging—and with the assistance of a most kind M. La Blanche, answer a few questions.

"Ah, yes, it is true," said the most obliging person that M. La Blanche, "M. Blériot says he does believe that some day the aeroplanes shall cross the Atlantic ocean. But how soon? Oh, ah, who shall presume to say? And how large?"

There were repeated volleys of explanatory, satisfactory, satisfactory French.

OCEAN GOING AIRSHIPS MUST BE BIG.

Yes, these machines which cross the ocean would certainly be very large. Yes, certainly as large as ocean steamers like "France" in comparison to the little ones in which the discoverers of America crossed the ocean. Indeed, it must be that these ocean craft must be very large. For to make such a distance in safety they must cross very high in air, three, four, five thousand meters, even more, to avoid all danger of rough air waves. To go so high they must be most large. They must carry great amounts of fuel to carry them so high, and, moreover, they must have many passengers. Swift? Yes, of a certainty, once more. Or else why not sail at all?

"But," translated M. La Blanche, "it has been printed that M. Blériot has said that these aeroplanes shall cross the Atlantic in two years from this date. That is not true. He knows not if it shall be two years, twenty years or two hundred. Only on one point is he certain. It shall be some time. Of that a certainty."

M. Blériot is here for the courtesy of France and as a visitor. He is not here for business. Another time, maybe, he may come for business. But not now. Now he is here to show the respect and appreciation of the Republic and the art of France for the appreciation of the American people for the military of France on the continent of North America.

A Family Medicine

The honest, straightforward statement of Mr. J. J. Vahling of his wife's and his experience in convincing proof of the great merit of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Thousands of such letters are received from grateful men and women who have derived wonderful benefit from its use.

"I very cheerfully recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey to every one. I was ailing for many years, and have severe pains in my back and weakness; but since I used this medicine I am much stronger and the pains have entirely left me. My wife had nervous troubles and headache. Now she is much better, owing to this wonderful remedy. We are thankful to you for what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done for us and we will always have it in our medicine chest."—J. J. Vahling, 1002 Menard St., St. Louis, Mo.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is one of the greatest strength builders and tonic stimulants known to medicine. It strengthens and fortifies the system and assists in building up the weakened tissues in a gradual, healthy manner. It is a wonderful remedy in the treatment of pneumonia, grip, bronchitis, coughs, colds, catarrh, malaria, low fever, stomach troubles and all wasting and weakening conditions if taken as directed.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish American war.

All druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle. Be sure you get the genuine; substitutes and imitations are injurious. Medical booklet, containing rare common sense rules for health and testimonials, also doctor's advice, sent free to any one who writes.

that Mr. Blériot could be induced to speak of his view of the proposed Peking-Paris aeroplanes race on the industry of navigation of the air. He then allowed as how he thought it would be pretty good.

M. BLERIOT COMING AGAIN TO DO BUSINESS.

The committee of French men of science, art, letters and statecraft who have come with La France statue will depart from these shores May 3. M. Blériot says he will leave with the others. But, according to other members of the committee, he has already determined to return again and make business medicine for the Blériot machines.

Just at present the Blériot factory has so many orders from the French, Italian and German governments that he cannot fill them. But in the meantime the airplane is making itself so popular in this country that adherents of the monoplane fear that the advent of the monoplane in its present state of progress may headway against a type which was arrived here it will have no chance will by that time have been accepted as final. There are 400 men at the wheels of Blériot machines to-day and nearly a hundred more in training.

In appearance M. Blériot is not particularly different from the youthfully mature man one meets in the lobbies of New York hotels any afternoon. Of course he wears the silk hat and the long-tailed coat of ceremony. But his eye is as clear and fresh as it is friendly. His mustache has an aggressive bristly; his cheeks have a healthy flush and he has the nervous eagerness to be doing something which marks all men who really succeed in doing things. M. Blériot accompanied him on the visit of the commission.

Forest Park Links Open May 1. Park Commissioner Walter G. Elliot, of Queens, will send out notices to-day that the public golf links in Forest Park will be open for use next Saturday, May 4. The links have been greatly improved this spring under the direction of Commissioner Elliot.
